

The Olga Lengyel Institute for Holocaust Studies and Human Rights

The Holocaust, Human Rights, & the Role of Education

An Interdisciplinary Inquiry on Teaching the Holocaust, Human Rights, and Social Justice

Salisbury, Maryland

July 19 - 24, 2020

The Maryland Holocaust Educators Network (MD-HEN) gathers teachers from across the mid-Atlantic region to study the Holocaust and genocide in a context of civil rights and social justice. We will witness, study, and collaborate together to invigorate our teaching. The program is open to middle school, high school and university-level teachers from any discipline. Teachers may apply as individuals or as team members and may represent public, private, and charter schools.

SEMINAR LEADERS

Julia Berg is a middle school social studies teacher in Salisbury, Maryland. As an English teacher in Baltimore City, Julia taught 7th and 8th graders about the Holocaust and other human rights issues, and continues to infuse human rights topics into the middle school history curriculum.

Alexander (Sandy) Pope is an assistant professor of social studies education at Salisbury University. He has taught about the Holocaust and human rights at the elementary, secondary, and college levels, and has completed fellowships at the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum and The Olga Lengyel Institute.

Thanks to the generous support of TOLI and our partners, this seminar is offered at NO COST to educators. In addition, participants receive:

- Free books and teaching materials
- Workshops and seminars
- Field trips and evening events
- Most breakfasts and lunches
- Low-cost housing options available on Salisbury University campus
- Maryland CPD credit and Salisbury University graduate credit will be available at their regular cost

APPLY NOW!

<https://www.toli.us/satellite-program/salisbury-maryland>

Questions? Contact Sandy Pope at axpope@salisbury.edu